

CATHOLIC SCHOOL

TAKE ANOTHER LOOK

Students in Bishop Machebeuf High School and Holy Family High School score higher on achievement tests than public school 10th graders. In 2005, 87% of 10th graders in these two schools scored above the national mean in Math and in Reading. 88% scored above the national mean in Writing.

In DPS, only 4% of Hispanic students scored “Passing” in Math on CSAP. About 6% of students in the Archdiocesan High Schools are Hispanic. They score slightly lower than the total 10th grade population, but still well above the national mean on the PLAN Math test.

The Archdiocese of Denver’s Catholic Schools are an investment in the future of our children and our Catholic faith.

Passing Scores on CSAP and PLAN Achievement Tests

